Master of Multidisciplinary Research in Experimental Sciences

Seminars in advanced research

Seminars in advanced research are monthly lectures and discussion sessions with internationally recognized researchers, providing a broad exposure to multidisciplinary research in experimental sciences. The main aim of the Seminars in advanced research is to provide students (and all other attendees) direct contact with inspirational speakers and leaders, who will talk about cutting-edge challenges in contemporary research. Seminars in advanced research are aimed at preparing students to understand what is involved in pursuing a cutting-edge research career in academia or industry, and specifically at pursuing a PhD at a leading international institution.
